

Teacher's Pre- and Post-Program Visit Guide

Program	Welcome to My Home
Grade Level	Grades 1-3
Time	50 minutes
Location	Duke Energy Children's Museum

Program Objectives

- Students will learn about children their own age from four different cultures.
- Students will learn about games, families and activities of other cultures.
- Students will compare and contrast the different cultures and how their own culture relates to the others.
- Students will use observation techniques to examine an exhibit and select pertinent information to solve problems.

Program Description

Compare your homes and lives to those of children around the world. Explore cultural similarities related to school, clothing, family routines, names and leisure activities. This program includes a guided experience in the Duke Energy Children's Museum's Children Just Like Me exhibit.

Major Vocabulary and concepts

Vietnam	Tanzania	Mexico
Inuit	similarities	language
Canada	differences

Ideas for pre-visit activities

- Read the book, Children Just Like Me (can be purchased at Cincinnati Museum Center or checked out of a local library). In the program, we will be discussing the following four children: Esta, Thi Lien, Omar and Levi. Read over these pages of the book. How are these children alike? How are they different?
- Explore the globe by finding all of the countries we will be talking about: Mexico, Canada, Vietnam and Tanzania. Locate them on maps and discuss their distance from Cincinnati.

Ideas for post-visit activities

- In your classroom, have children write letters to the children featured in the program. What questions would they like to ask? Have them describe their own homes, families and hobbies.
- Learn about and discuss the other children in the Children Just Like Me book.
- Chart common words from other languages and how they are similar, yet very different from our own. For example—an American "yield" sign is "give way" in Britain.

- Have students research and share the variations of the universal game, hopscotch and the universal food, pancakes.
- Ask students to pick a place or child (from the book) that they would like to visit. Have them share with the class their choice and their reasons.
